

BIO
Howard F. McGinn

Howard F. McGinn, Ph.D. is Dean of University Libraries at Seton Hall University. His career is divided between service in librarianship and in corporate management. Past positions in librarianship include State Librarian of North Carolina, City Librarian of New Haven, CT., Director of the Emporia (KS) Public Library and Dean of University Libraries at Clarion University of Pennsylvania. Corporate positions held include General Manager of the New York Times Company's Microfilming Corporation of America and National Media Sales Manager for the J.B. Lippincott Publishing Company. McGinn has served as an adjunct faculty member in the schools of library science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina Central University and Emporia State University and in the Lundy-Fetterman School of Business at Campbell University. He is the author of over 40 journal articles and book chapters. Professional activities have included Chair of the Affirmative Action Committee for the Black Caucus of the American Library Association, Member of the American Library Association's Spectrum Advisory Committee and President of the NC Chapter of Special Libraries Association. McGinn has been recognized by the General Assemblies of Connecticut and Pennsylvania for his work in civil rights. The American Library Association awarded him its Exceptional Achievement Award for his construction of the first statewide electronic information network in the United States in North Carolina in 1986. He holds a B.A. in Philosophy from Villanova University, an M.S.L.S. from Drexel University, an M.B.A. from Campbell University and a Ph.D. in Information Management from Emporia State University. He is currently completing an M.A. in Theology at Seton Hall.